TRENTO SUMMER SCHOOL ON ADVANCED EU COMPETITION LAW AND ECONOMICS

The third edition of the Summer School will take place in Moena (Italian Dolomites) from 18th to 24th June 2017.

The Summer School is organized by the Osservatorio Permanente sull'Applicazione delle Regole di Concorrenza based at the Faculty of Law of Trento University ("Osservatorio Antitrust").

It is co-directed by Gian Antonio Benacchio and Michele Carpagnano.

The Summer School offers a unique opportunity to analyze and study EU Competition Law and Economics at an advanced level.

The advanced course combines academic studies with a pragmatic approach to the application of competition rules.

The academic program is designed to cover both substantive and procedural aspects of EU Competition Law with practical session (complaints, compliance programs, leniency applications and estimation of antitrust damages) and how to do sessions (mock dawn-raids and mock trial before the EU General Court). There will also be two workshops on hot topics in EU Competition Law and Economics and a keynote speech on New Nationalism and Competition. Moreover, three cocktail-talks will focus on: i) the relationship between Public and Private Antitrust enforcement; ii) how Competition Law is seen from the Digital market; and iii) on the Competition viewed from the business and finance community. A new feature of the third edition will be the Antitrust Compliance Night where participants will be engaged in a play role game with leading expert on antitrust compliance from Academia, Business community and Practice.

ACADEMIC PROGRAM

Historical foundations and their relevance today

The historical foundations of competition law are essential to understand the current legal framework. The workshop will present the main aspects of the evolution of competition law in the EU since its origins. The workshop will also consider the goals of competition law and the methods applied by public authorities to pursue these goals, as applied in the last century and today. Moreover, the main theories that support Competition Law & Economics will be discussed from a historical perspective.

Substantive law: Articles 101 and 102 TFEU

These two advanced courses aim at analysing the application of Articles 101 and 102 TFEU in light of the latest case law and decisions from European and National Competition Authorities. Departing from the general description of the functioning of competition rules, this course focuses on complex legal, economic and practical issues encountered in the application of these rules. Summer school participants will discuss the relevant case law and decisions during the course also confronting their knowledge and perception of specific problems.

Competition economics

The aim of this advanced course is to provide the participants with a practical understanding of how economics is used in antitrust law assessments. The course will look into the modern usage of economic tools for the enforcement of competition rules and will encourage active participation in order to foster the creation of an interactive environment.

Public Antitrust enforcement

The aim of this advanced course is to analyse the dynamic of public enforcement in the European Union. Moreover, it will focus on specific procedural problems that arise in practice, adopting a practical approach.

The Commission is charged with the enforcement of EU competition law and, since the entry into force of Regulation 1/2003, also National Competition Authorities are empowered to enforce the same competition rules. The course will also take into consideration the policy background that characterises the EU of competition law enforcement system.

Private Antitrust enforcement & collective redress

The aim of this advanced course is to provide knowledge and practical guidance in relation to damage claims resulting from infringement of EU competition law in pan-European cases. The workshop will also discuss the EU Directive for damage claims and relevant case law as part of the legal framework applicable to private enforcement of Competition Law in Europe. The course will also give guidance on Collective Redress legislations and their practice in Europe.

How to sessions

The practical sessions of the Summer School will give participants insights and guidance on: i) how to check your antitrust damages; ii) manage down raids.

Hot topics in Competition Law & economics

These two sessions will provide a summary and an authoritative outlook of the main developments in European Competition Law and Economics. Case law on European and national levels as well as relevant legislative developments and the new trends in competition law will be discussed with the participants.

Practical simulations

The practical simulations will be based on the interaction with participants. The basics of each case will be presented (Dawn-raids, Court Hearings) and then the participants will have to simulate with the speaker and the team.

Cocktail-talks

Top experts from private practice, academia, business community and Institutions will discuss informally on: i) the relationship between Public and Private Antitrust enforcement; ii) how Competition is seen from the Digital market; and iii) how Competition is seen from the business and finance community.

Antitrust Compliance

A unique opportunity where participants will be engaged in a play role game with leading expert on antitrust compliance.
